SHERIDAN — Earlier this week, Sheridan College Director of Bands and Jazz Studies Eric Richards traveled to Ashland, Montana, to lead the Montana School District 1 Honor Band for its annual District 10 Honor Festival performance, giving students at smaller schools a chance to rehearse and perform at a higher level than their typical band practices.

Richards spent Monday and Tuesday leading more than 60 students in rehearsal and conducted a performance Tuesday evening at St. Labre Indian Catholic High School in Ashland. The band is comprised of students selected from the 10 schools in Montana District 10.

SHERIDAN — The holidays can be a difficult time for people who have experienced recent loss, family changes or a post-traumatic stress disorder diagnosis, said Megan Mack, Sheridan Veterans Affairs Health Care System assistant chief of mental health.

“THAT’S ONE OF THE TELL-TALE PIECES OF PTSD, FEELING DISCONNECTED — EVERYONE IS SO HAPPY.”

SHERIDAN — Sheridan City Council voted to earmark $225,000 in surplus funds from the previous fiscal year to go toward updating the city’s outdated computer network this week, an initial step in what city officials expect will be a crucial, but expensive, project.

Supreme justices issue decision on Gonzalez-Chavarria appeal

FROM STAFF REPORTS

SHERIDAN — A man found guilty of felony strangulation and meanor domestic battery Oct. 24, 2018, in the Wyoming Supreme Court in reference to testimony given at the trial — is still facing deportation, according to the decision.

During testimony, the victim reported specifically not being attacked by Gonzalez-Chavarria, although photographs and video testimony from emergency responders intersecting with the victim of the crime — which occurred June 2, 2018 — and days following proved otherwise during the trial.

Gonzalez-Chavarria appealed his conviction, claiming the district court erred in admitting the testimony of the victim’s treating physician for truth of the matter asserted after ruling the testimony would be admitted only for impeachment, according to the supreme court decision.

The defendant also argued evidence was insufficient to establish the elements of strangulation.

After reviewing facts of the case, testimony from the trial and other evidence, state chief justices concluded the evidentiary ruling against the defendant’s testimony was not an abuse of discretion. They also found the evidence was more than sufficient for the jury to reasonably find Gonzalez-Chavarria guilty beyond a reasonable doubt of each element of his crimes, according to the decision.

The defendant still faces deportation, having been found guilty of a felony offense and not holding citizenship in the U.S. Probation was considered, but not granted, during his sentencing.

He was sentenced to two to three years in prison for the strangulation charge and six months incarceration for the domestic battery charge, running simultaneously with his first sentence.

Putting exercise on the back burner after the holidays, eating and drinking more than usual and changes in holiday habits are common stressors for many individuals, all of which can influence mental health, Mack said.

Thousands of messages from movies and television show heroes perplex an ideal for what the holiday season is supposed to look and feel like, she said. Travel, gifts, food and general holiday spending can quickly increase financial stress.

The National Retail Federation estimates Americans will increase holiday spending by 5%, this year compared to 2018, totaling more than $30 billion over the season. The average individual will spend more than $1,000 on gifts, food, cards and decorations.

Common holiday stressors that most Americans experience include family, finances and physical stressors, Mack said. Holidays can act as a reminder of unpleasant experiences or highlight difficult changes that have come about since the last holiday season.

For an aging population like Gonzalez’s, a change in health and mobility could come into sharp focus during a time when physical stressors like shopping, cooking, cleaning and socializing become more common. Mack said a senior may have moved from walking with a cane to a wheelchair, for example.

Thomas Floyd Legocki was born May 20, 1965 in Belle Fourche, South Dakota, the sixth child of Roger and Albinine (Albright) Legocki. Ted was a charming little boy with a sunny smile.

The family moved to Rapid City and then to Gillette, Wyoming. His parents divorced when he was 3 years old.

After High School in Sheridan, he enlisted in the Army, attending Vo-Tech school in Phoenix, AZ. Ted loved the Big Horn Mountains, and had many adventures camping, fishing, and snowboarding. He adored the family pets throughout his life, especially his dog, Dill.

He is survived by his brother, Roger "Rocky" Nicholas (Thomas) who raised Ted from the age of 5 years old. The family moved to Rapid City and then to Laramie for a semester at the University of Wyoming. From Wyoming they moved to Casper for a few years, then back to Rapid City.

He was born December 20, 1965 in Belle Fourche, South Dakota, the sixth child of Roger and Albinine (Albright) Legocki.

He was able to collect data from the birth and death records during his last months. He will be laid to rest at the Lake City Veteran’s Hospital after a year long treatment in Buffalo, Montana, and had many adventures camping, fishing, and snowboarding. He adored the family pets throughout his life, especially his dog, Dill.

Richards was invited to serve as guest conductor by St. Labre Band Director Patrick Maloney.

Richards practiced with the band for two days Monday and Tuesday before the performance.

“It’s a great opportunity for them when all get together, to be in a full-size band of this size, a lot of them don’t have that opportunity and with Dr. Richards being able to work with them, it was a fantastic opportunity for our students,” Maloney said.

Richards was impressed with the band, saying, “It’s a talented group of people. They are very hard-working and disciplined. They were really impressed with the director and the music that highlight particular pieces of music, the composer trying to paint this picture,” Richards said.

As an example, Richards mentioned Larry Doschan’s “As Summer Was Just Beginning,” written as a tribute to actor James Dean.

In advance for practice on their own, the group opened with a Spanish march composed by Jaime Teixidor called “Amperito Roca,” in a style called “pauses donde,” which translates to two-step or double-step.

Richards said the most challenging part of the concert was the first movement, “Amperito Roca,” First Suite in F-flat, a symphony for fanfares.

“The band closed with Joseph Horovitz’s ‘Tribute to the American Folkloric Dances,’” a “really exciting and exciting piece with some cool percussion parts” typically found in folk music, Richards said.

Maloney said his students’ performance is always elevated after doing the honor group.

“They were all fantastic performers, really standing out. It was great to work with them. They were very well-behaved,” Richards said. “As a group, they rose to the challenge.”

Richards also featured a performance by the district’s Honor Choir, led by Burns High School Band and Choir Director Ann Schatz, who grew up in Sheridan and trained music at Sheridan College. The choir is also composed of about 60 students.

“I know that the students were really impressed with both of our conductors. The students had a lot out of the two days, and it’s an honor delivery for our students,” Maloney said.

Richards will load the Sheridan Community Presbyterian Church and Choir Brass Ensembles in each of the three annual Brassfest at First Presbyterian Church.

Richards was invited to serve as guest conductor by St. Labre Band Director Patrick Maloney, who knew Richards from his work with the Sheridan Community Concert Band. Maloney has brought the band to Sheridan in the past to perform with the community band.

“We’re limited with the tools we have to show our disenfranchisement, and that is through our antiracist speeches, resolutions, non-face disciplinary action for not doing anything in unity,” Olsen added.

Despite the rushed schedule, Richards tried to relate the material to students’ coursework.

“I’m also trying to talk about important points in class, that this particular moment in the piece illustrates either this kind of musical idea or this particular piece the composer’s trying to paint this picture,” Richards said.

As an example, Richards mentioned Larry Doschan’s “As Summer Was Just Beginning,” written as a tribute to actor James Dean.

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Wild are managing to succeed for the short stretches they've been home this season.

Jason Zucker scored twice in the third period and the Wild beat the Colorado Avalanche 3-2 Thursday night.

 Mats Zuccarello and Jordan Greenway also scored for Minnesota, which has won consecutive games for the second time in three games this month. Since losing its home opener, the Wild are 3-2 in their last five games.

"It's definitely on our minds," Zucker said. "Anytime we have a healthy lineup, we have the best chance to win."

"We're not going to look at the serveral games this month. It was a good team win," coach Jared Reich said. "This was a playoff game."

"Every year, the Super 25 team is announced by the Casper Star-Tribune. The Super 25 team is named to honor the best high school football players in Wyoming. Every year, the Super 25 team is named to honor the top high school football players in Wyoming."

"Anytime we have a healthy lineup, we have to bounce back from an embarrassing loss, the Houston Texans used their performance from Deshaun Watson and DeAndre Hopkins to beat the Indianapolis Colts and move into first place in the AFC South."

That's what's your excuse for missing more than 100 games because of herniated discs (bulging, torn discs, etc.), since becoming a Laker in 2012. His response: “It’s a game from sciatica and after games, (often can’t) sit in the car or on the drive home”.

“There is an incredible difference between this game (basketball) and swinging a golf club. Sciatica affects around 10% of adults at some point. Often, it’s caused by a herniated disc in the lower back that’s compressing a nerve root, but it can also be caused by a pinched nerve root, or a muscle deep in the buttocks. Whatever the cause, it triggers excruciating pain down the back of the leg.

“There is an incredible difference between this game (basketball) and swinging a golf club. Sciatica affects around 10% of adults at some point. Often, it’s caused by a herniated disc in the lower back that’s compressing a nerve root, but it can also be caused by a pinched nerve root, or a muscle deep in the buttocks. Dear Heloise: The 2020 SUMMER OLYMPICS will be held in Japan, so if your readers are interested in going, there are some customs to be considered.

* Upon greeting someone, bow. Shaking hands is un- common, and the combination of shaking hands and hugging is inap- propriate.
* Gift giving is part of Ja- pan’s social customs. When visiting a home, take a host- ess gift—nothing too expen- sive, but something useful.
* Always remove your shoes before entering a home, and make certain the toe of your shoe points to- ward the door.

A WORLD OF CAUTION Dear Heloise: Never put your child's name on a code word only the parents and child know. If the stranger doesn't know the code word, tell your children to run away and find a police officer, a cross- ing guard or a neighbor. — Douglas T., Benton, Va.

PILLOW TALK Dear Heloise: I've read so much about how some hotels or motels don't clean their sheets and pillowcases or bedspreads as well as we would like. In my job, I used to travel frequently, and I take my own pillowcase along with me when I travel. It's hot pink, so I remember to take it with me when I leave. — Pam B., Charleston, W.Va.

COUPONS Dear Heloise: My husband goes with me when I go grocery shopping, but he hates it when I pull out coupons and use them. Last week, we saved over $14 using coupons! As retired people, we need to take advantage of these savings, but my hus- band says it makes us look cheap or poor. — Betty L., Wake Forest, N.C.

Betsy, me, it makes you look smart to save money without giving up the foods you enjoy. Manufacturers issue coupons to encourage people to try their brands, and they are happy to give you a discount on items you might have overlooked be- fore.— Heloise

TWO IS BETTER Dear Heloise: Please tell your readers that if they are going to adopt a cat or a dog and don't have any other pets at home, then adopt two cats or two dogs. Pets need companionship, and having two pets just dou- bles the fun. — Sadie F., La Grange, Ky.

DOG COLLAR Dear Heloise: I took my dog to the vet yesterday, and he said my dog's collar was too tight. He told me I should be able to slide two fingers under the collar, and if I can't, then the collar needs to be loosened. He also said that if on a growing puppy, it's VERY important to keep checking this rule of measurement so the col- lar doesn't choke the dog. — Elizabeth D., Auburn, Maine

AVALANCHE: At home next two games

From Tim Harkins

His 15 points are the most in November by a rookie defenseman since Detroit’s Nicklas Lidstrom scored 16 in 1999. Lacy Murphy holds the record of 18 in 1980 with the Nordiques in 1983.

“I’d like to be his agent. He’s got that money pretty soon,” Boudreau quipped. Colorado has gotten a multiplicative effect from one of its players in seven straight games, tying the franchise record set by the Quebec Nordiques in 1983.

Zuccarello scored on the power play for the second time in two games, redirecting a feed from Mikko Koivu. Fifty-three seconds later, Greenway made it 3-0 by completing a pretty tic-tac-toe play with Luke Kunin and Erickson Klute.

NOTES: Minnesota’s Devan Dubnyk (family issue) missed the game. Kaapo Kahkonen, recalled from the minor leagues the night before, started in net for the Avalanche.

The Hawks added Stepan Ruta during the middle of the season. Kim was traded to the Whalers last season and decided to try the Eastern Hockey League, a Tier III league.

The Hawks will be on the road, facing the Fort Garry Mustangs of the Manitoba Junior B League.

The Hawks are second in the division, behind the Minnesota Stars.

Colorado has gotten a multiplicative effect from one of its players in seven straight games, tying the franchise record set by the Quebec Nordiques in 1983.

For the Border War rivalry every time, retired Air Force veteran Terry Creekmore said, it is a puzzle so sometimes you have to.

“Those are the types of kids on your team, but like I said, it is a puzzle so sometimes you have to,” he said.

LARAMIE — The Border War rivalry has been on for more than a century, but members of the University of Wyoming’s and Colorado State University’s athletics and military programs came together at the Wyoming-Colorado border Thursday to honor an annual tradition since 1966: the Bronze Boot Run.

“Right coach and team chemistry is crucial to a player’s success. The player’s advancement, the right coach and team, or move a player is not an easy decision but sometimes it is the right direction for the player’s advancement,” Schellen said.

Recently Justin Schwarztzler received a call to practice with the Bismarck Bobcats, a Tier II junior team in the NAHL. Rutta said the goal for every player is to play at a higher level.

The Hawks are 6-2-1 in their last nine games, and have a good feeling his efforts, those are the ones getting rewarded for their putting in the work and getting rewarded for their efforts, those are the ones you want to see every day,” Schellen said. “You never actually want to get rid of a kid on your team, but like I said, it is a puzzle so sometimes you have to.”

The teams split the first meeting in Sheridan Oct. 26. The tomatoes advanced their record to 11-1 since then.

Eriksson Ek. “I am not the type of guy who wants to sit on the bench,” Kesler said. “I am always looking for a way to contribute.”

Kesler is an assistant captain for the Canucks.

“The overall Wyoming/Colorado State rivalry actually began in 1899. This year’s meeting will be the 111th meeting overall. It’s also Colorado State’s longest rivalry every time,” retired Air Force veteran Terry Creekmore said.
